What does being a CFB member mean to you?

I love Colorado Farm Bureau because it's more than a membership – it's a voice that matters, a seat at the table that counts, and a community dedicated to keeping Colorado proudly rural and deeply rooted in agriculture.
- Veronica Lasater

Colorado Farm Bureau has been a key influence in my growth and development as a leader and as an informed agriculturalist. CFB brings together producers and advocates from across the industry and supports us with leadership development, connectedness, and unmatched policy advocacy at the state and federal levels.
- Jacob Walter

As a veteran and first-generation farmer, I love being part of the Colorado Farm Bureau because it's more than an organization – it's a family that supports every member, uplifts Colorado communities, and protects the land that sustains and feeds us all! Colorado Farm Bureau gives me the courage, support, and voice to keep my farm thriving, serve others, and build a stronger future for the next generation in Colorado agriculture.
